

Delivering Intelligent Communications

What's to Fear From Peer to Peer?

Terry Robinson,
Director of Product
Management, New Ventures,

August 23, 2006

IP Telephony

Contact Centers

Mobility

Services

Peer to Peer in the Enterprise

Public
Peer to Peer
Voice

Lack of Control

Compliance Issues

Public Access Concerns

Security Breaches

and best of all....
...it's free!

Meet New Opportunities with Enterprise Peer to Peer...

More Locations

Branch Offices, remote locations, disaster recovery

More Control

Simple deployment, centralized management

More Savings

Consolidate trunks, eliminate POTS, Leverage infrastructure

More Productivity

All employees regardless of location

Enterprise Class Peer to Peer Delivers

Leverage existing WAN infrastructure to lower telecom costs and connect branches with SIP based connectivity

Enterprise wide dialing plans drive productivity

Manage, upgrade and configure multiple sites at once
with the touch of a button

Reduce number of servers,
ease installation

Resolving Fears:

Enterprise Adoption Starts to Ramp

“...streamlined communications are a necessity and have been a real challenge until now.”

Resolving Fears:

Summary

*Public
Peer to Peer*

Challenging deployment
Rapid consumer adoption

*Enterprise
Peer to Peer*

Significant opportunities
Deployments well underway
Broad Industry Support